Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District, ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great. Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL Druggists have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Newburgh Falls, Vermont. 127d.

AN AUTUMN FARM-SONG.

Briskly beats the rhythmic flail
From morn to night,
This way and that its strokes prevail,
While winter days of Arctic might
Are now in sight.

The maid who carries the milking-pail,
So foaming white!
Loves well the lad who wields the flail;
While he esteems his labor light
With her in sight.

Fast flies the wheat, up goes the straw,
A goodly store
Of golden grain he has to draw
Within the bursting granary door,
From off the floor.

He casts his eye upon her face,
Wreathed in a smile;
She sees in him a manly grace—
A breath from Love's enraptured isle
Holds them the while.

The maiden skims the luscious cream,
And butter makes—
But both indulge Love's homied dream,
While Hope her fairest vision takes
For their dear sakes.

For he who swings the sounding flail
Has won the "Yes"
From her who carries the milking-pail,
And sealed the promise with a kiss—
So, winter days are not amiss,
—N. Y. Ledger.

How to Pluck an Ostrich.

Mr. J. Protheroe, the young Englishman who has in Central Park a herd of twenty-two ostriches, recently imported from Buenos Ayres for breeding in America, went yesterday morning with his herdsman, an ebon Cape Towner, named Johnson, and a Sun reporter, to the deer hut in which the birds are confined. When Johnson opened the door he was greeted by a series of sounds suggestive of the noise made by a fog horn.

"That's what the Dutch natives of Cape Town call 'bromming,'" said Mr. Protheroe. "It expresses the same feeling with an ostrich that cooing does with a dove. I'll show you how we pluck an ostrich. Johnson, bring the stocking."

The dark herder, whom the birds regarded with mild-eyed affection, produced a long, white stocking. He caught one of the birds by its neck, and inserted the head and neck in the stocking. The result irresistibly recalled the pictures of Bernhardt in Bernhardt gloves. The banded bird exhibited some nervousness.

"This herd have been so long in confinement," said Mr. Protheroe, "that they are comparatively gentle when the stocking is pulled over their necks. They fight and kick vigorously sometimes when they have been accustomed to the liberty of a large farm."

Johnson led the bird up to a side of the hut, against which with one hand he held his neck. He held up a wing with the other hand, while Mr. Protheroe held the other wing and with a pair of shears clipped off a white feather one inch from the flesh under the wing. "It would not do," continued Mr. Protheroe, "to pull these feathers out. Inflammation might set in. We pull out the tail feathers and those on the outside of the wings. One month after we cut off the large feathers under the wing new feathers push out the old quills."

While Mr. Protheroe was speaking the long-necked birds were making friends with the reporter. One of them seized his shirt collar, but was frustrated by Johnson in his attempt to swallow it. Another tried to gulp down the reporter's cane, but finding a stiff neck the result, desisted.

"If you will stand behind me," said the young Englishman, "we will open the door and let the birds out for their morning airing. They are dangerous when let at liberty."

Johnson pushed back the sliding door of the hut. "Now," continued Mr. Protheroe, "you will see something that you have not had the privilege of seeing in America before." Johnson gave a low, peculiar whistle, resembling somewhat the "bromming" of the birds as he walked out of the door into the grassy enclosure. The ungainly bipeds rushed after him pell-mell. Their necks were craned out and their mouths were wide open. They ran about the enclosure in a break-neck fashion for several minutes, occasionally bumping into one another. Then they began flapping their wings and waltzing. It was a veritable waltz, and is so termed by ostrich farmers. The birds turn rapidly round and round, dipping their necks and swaying their bodies at each turn. A rhythm that could be set to music pervades their motions.

"It would be unsafe to go among them now, unless, like Johnson, you were familiar with them," said Mr. Protheroe. Two of the male ostriches began to fight at this point. They faced each other with distended mouths, flapping wings and glaring eyes. Then they began a pecking match, which was followed by some high kicking, forward, backward and sidewise. "While they are too tough to be much hurt by their own kicks, they have been known to break the arms and legs of men by them," said Mr. Protheroe. The birds will be taken to California soon. Mr. Protheroe thinks his ostrich farming in America will be entirely successful.—N. Y. Sun.

Friendship That Endures.

Very admirable—though very rare—is close and enduring friendship between men. Such a friendship, beginning in youth and lasting through life, and growing stronger and fonder as old age succeeds youth and the grave is approached, is a friendship only of the noble spirits. A striking instance of this, and one which refreshes faith in the goodness of the human heart and the value of human friendship, has occurred in this State in connection with the death of the late J. M. Griffith, of Dubuque—as told by the Davenport Democrat. When Rev. C. S. Seymour, now a professor in the theological department of Griswold College, at Davenport, was rector of St. John's Church in Dubuque—which he was for more than ten years—Mr. Griffith was one of his wardens, and the friendship between the pastor and layman became warm indeed. They took a tour in Europe together three years since, and one day while in Paris Mr. Griffith obtained a promise from his pastor that should he be the one to first pass away, he (the pastor) should hasten to his place of death as soon as possible, and accompany his remains to Dubuque, officiate at the funeral and the placing of the body in the beautiful Linwood cemetery. The pledge was given in the presence of Mrs. Griffith, who has sent her old pastor and friend word that the time has come when he must fulfill it—and Dr. Seymour has departed on his sad mission. Mr. Griffith died in Paris Sunday night, and Monday night Dr. Seymour left Davenport on his mission of friendship. He will sail from New York City on Saturday for Havre and Paris.

This evidence of an enduring friendship between two noble men is one of which the busy world may well stop in its hurry and read.—Iowa State Register.

—A famous North Carolina clergyman, while preaching a few Sundays ago from the text, "He giveth His beloved sleep," stopped in the middle of the discourse, gazed upon his slumbering congregation, and said: "Brethren, it is hard to realize the unbounded love which the Lord appears to have for a large portion of my auditory."

—The Third Presbyterian Church of Chicago, has two thousand and fifty members, and is only exceeded numerically by the Brooklyn Tabernacle in this country.—Golden Rule.

CONSIDERABLE new hemp in coming into Lexington at $4 50. It is said to be the best grown for years.

THE National Tobacco Association urges congress to reduce the tax on tobacco from twelve to eight cents on the pound.

THE commissioner of agriculture of Kentucky in reviewing the 1882 tobacco crop, under date January first says there was little over a full acreage grown to tobacco. The crop is very generally satisfactory as to product and quality. The house burning, about which correspondents were so much alarmed when it was being cured, amounts to very little. Indeed there is less damage from this cause than accrues almost every year. So many correspondents speak of a large part of the crop as being of good quality that the conclusion is forced that, at the same time the crop is a full one, it is also of fine quality.

The Cause of Business Depression.

The New York Tribune in discussing the unsatisfactory condition of business says: The root of the present difficulty is excessive speculation in products and the resort to "corners" and monopolies in order to extend unnatural prices. Iron is prostrated because the combination virtually cornered the market and extorted excessive prices two years ago.

Petroleum has been controlled by a monopoly for years. Cotton was held at an unnatural price for long time, and the growth of consumption was thereby checked.

Speculation prevented the marketing of a part of the wheat and provision produced last year, and delayed exports this year until crops from other countries had command of the markets. Now the farmer having been accustomed to high prices and to the fine stories circulated in order to obtain such prices, hesitates to sell at present quotations and the legitimate effects of the large crop this year have been in part lost thus far. The markets have not been relieved, as they should have been by the return of money from abroad in payment of large exports. We can not have our cake and eat it too; if we will have the dear delights of unlimited gambling and jobbery in commerce, we must bear some of the consequences.

GRAYSON.

Neal and Craft Promised a Fair Trial, Without Military Protection, by a Mass Meeting of Citizens—Slanderous Reports Denounced.

Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.

GRAYSON, CARTER COUNTY, Jan. 8.—The court of claims, met here to-day, Judge J. H. Strother presiding, with a majority of the justices of the peace present.

In the afternoon a mass meeting of the best citizens of the county was held for the purpose of correcting false reports in relation to the approaching trial of the Ashland murderers, Craft and Neal, which is set for the 7th of February. Hon. Geo. W. Prichard, ex-member of the legislature, was made chairman, and Col. E. B. Wilhoit, a prominent lawyer, secretary. A committee on resolutions, consisting of nine justices of the peace and J. P. Pinkerton, a practicing attorney and elder of the Christian church, was appointed, who reported a series of resolutions denouncing as false and slanderous the reports that the citizens of Carter were organizing and equipping companies for the purpose of interfering with the court in the trial of Neal and Craft. Another resolution expressed the utmost confidence in the honesty and integrity of Hon. Geo. N. Brown, circuit judge, and disclaimed any intention of dictating to him in relation to the course he may think proper to pursue in conducting the trial of Neal and Craft. Another resolution declared that in criminal trials in the courts of this county heretofore, the local authorities had always been sufficient to preserve quiet and protect the accused, without the intervention of troops, and that so far as the citizens of Carter county were concerned, Neal and Craft would be amply protected by the authorities here without the presence of troops. These resolutions were passed with but one dissenting voice.

There was a large attendance of the best and most substantial citizens of the county.

How He Got Rid of the Pups.

Paducah News.

A gentleman of this city recently became possessed of a litter of a mongrel breed, and of no use to their owner or any other human being on the face of the earth. Being a humane man, he was averse to slaughtering the innocents, and proposed to Capt. Jack Sleeth, of the Silver Cloud, to take the lot up the Tennessee and see if he could not give them away to the denizens of that mysterious region. Capt. Jack was at first loth to bother with them, but finally told the owner to put them in a basket, cover the same with mosquito netting and invoice them to some firm in Florence, Ala., at a value of $25 each. This was done, and the basket of pups placed at the foot of the cabin stairway, where they were surrounded by an admiring throng. Capt. Jack exhibited the invoice and "spoke in glowing terms" of their fine breeding and value. Before the boat reached Johnsonville every pup in the basket had been stolen and spirited away by the admirers of choice dog flesh on board. The basket was returned to the owner on the return of the Silver Cloud to Paducah.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, Catarrh, and all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood; expelling the blood-poisons from the system, enriching and renewing the blood, and restoring its vitalizing power.

During a long period of unparalleled usefulness, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has proven its perfect adaptation to the cure of all diseases originating in poor blood and a weakened vitality. It is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron; and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier and blood-food that can be used.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured.

"AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has cured me of the Inflammatory Rheumatism, with which I have suffered for many years." W. H. MOORE.
Durham, Ia., March 2, 1882.

"Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. I have not been troubled with the Rheumatism since. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public." E. F. HARRIS.
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

"Last March I was so weak from general debility that I could not walk without help. Following the advice of a friend, I commenced taking AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and before I had used three bottles I felt as well as I ever did in my life. I have been at work now for two months, and think your SARSAPARILLA the greatest blood medicine in the world." JAMES MAYNARD.
520 West 42d St., New York, July 19, 1882.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1883.

More people have read THE SUN during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are creditably informed that people buy, read and like THE SUN for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for mankind: the events, the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs THE SUN makes a practice of telling them the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of descent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. THE SUN has absolutely no purposes to serve save the information of its readers and the furtherance of common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that THE SUN is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robesonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, THE SUN stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

All this is what we are told almost daily by our friends. One man holds that THE SUN is the best religious newspaper ever published, because christianity is undiluted with cant. Another holds that it is the best Republican newspaper printed, because it has already whipped half of the rascals out of that party and is proceeding against the other half with undiminished vigor. A third believes it to be the best magazine of general literature in existence, because its readers miss nothing worthy of notice that is current in the world of thought. So every friend of THE SUN discovers one of its many sides that appeals with particular force to his individual liking.

If you already know THE SUN, you will observe that in 1883 it is a little better than before. If you do not already know THE SUN, you will find it to be a mirror of all human activity, a store house of the choicest products of common sense and imagination, a mainstay for the cause of honest government, a sentinel for genuine Jeffersonian Democracy, a scourge for wickedness of every species, and an uncommonly good investment for the coming year.

Terms to Mail Subscribers.

The several editions of THE SUN are sent by mail, postpaid, as follows:

DAILY—55 cents a month, $6 50 a year; with Sunday edition, $7 70.

SUNDAY—Eight pages, $1 20 a year.

WEEKLY—$1 a year. Eight pages of the best matter of the daily issues; an agricultural department of unequaled merit, market reports and literary, scientific and domestic intelligence make THE WEEKLY SUN the newspaper for the farmer's household. In 1861 he was elected senator to succeed Hannibal Hamlin elected vice president. He was re-elected to the senate in 1863, and also to succeed Wm. P. Fessenden in 1877. At the expiration of his term he was appointed collector of customs at Portland.

The Sorrows of Tennessee's Defaulting Treasurer.

GALVESTON, Jan. 10.—A Laredo special says Polk, the Tennessee treasurer, after his first arrest, was liberated for over $50,000.

He was rearrested, hiding in the brush, several miles from Webb, by United States Marshal Sheehy, whom Polk offered $8,000 to release him.

When captured Polk's hands and clothing were filled with prickly pear thorns, got from wandering in the thicket.

Small-pox at Shiloh.

SHILOH, Ky., Jan. 10.—Small-pox is raging here. Stores are closed and business suspended. Whole families are stricken and the citizens are fleeing. Several physicians have died and the disease is unusually powerful and fatal.

Building Boom.

The present outlook is that the coming season will be a busy one for builders. Since the first of January Messrs. Collins, Rudy & Co., of the Kentucky Saw and Planing Mills, have contracted to furnish the material for houses to be constructed for the following persons: Mrs. Amanda Ward, Thos. Worthington, Jno. Gabby, Sr., and twelve frame dwellings to be built by Lane & Worrick, for J. C. Owens. In addition to these the firm will supply the material for a large double frame dwelling to be constructed for H. H. Collins at Carlisle. The Planing Mill Company will themselves build four neat frame dwellings in East Maysville as soon as the weather will permit. The gentlemen comprising the firm are recognized as among our most enterprising and honorable citizens, and the large business they are bringing to the city is recognized as a public benefit. The establishment is well and widely known as one of the best in the Ohio valley.

Fig Cake.

THE BULLETIN is indebted to one of the best lady cooks in the city for the following recipe for fig cake: Take a large cup butter and two and a half cups of sugar, and beat well together; one cup of sweet milk, three pints of flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, the whites of sixteen eggs, a pound and a quarter of figs well boiled and cut in strips like citron, no flavoring.

FERN LEAF.

We have commenced the new year, as usual with steady and increasing industry, temperance and morality, we do not indulge in strong drink or stimulants of any kind, only for medicinal purposes. I have traveled in twenty-three different states and like this place the best of any other. The town is situated on an elevated gradual slope and ornamented by a beautiful hedge fence and magnificent hitching posts to hitch your horses. But when you go to Minerva, you have to tie your horse to a tree.

Thomas E. Worthington, sold his new crop of tobacco at 2 1/2 and 7 cents.

There are several bunches of fat hogs in this neighborhood for sale.

On last Sunday a young gentleman of this vicinity went to see a young lady of said vicinity, the said gentleman, was in the act of having his horse put in the stable, by the black boy, intending to take dinner and spend the day when he saw another young gentleman from Fleming county, drive up; who was also paying his addresses to said lady; who is that, said the gentleman to the boy; data Mr. from up yonder, said the boy. Bring out my horse said the gentleman, its no use for me to stay here, he mounted his horse and left immediately, but ventured back again after the Fleming gentleman left. The gentleman of this vicinity must—

Take life as it comes; It's bitter and sweet, Repining won't lengthen time's leisurely feet. C. F. Haughley is improving slowly.

Two gentlemen here, have invented a rat-trap with an imitation of a monkey attached to it; the imitation of the monkey is so arranged that when the rat pulls the trigger it springs out and either catches the rat or scares it so bad that it leaves immediately. The inventors remain incognito until patented.

E. Jones has been breaking corn ground. His dog was trying to kill sheep and he exterminated the dog and banished him from the face of the earth.

Chickens have to roost high in Minerva, or they come up missing. Dozo.

Please Pass the Salt.

A real romance occurred lately in a hotel in Montreal. In the hotel the road agent of a respectable company boarded while in the city. In the same hotel an American young lady was domiciled. The lady was pleasant and accomplished. The young gentleman at first viewed the lady admiringly at a distance, but too timid to approach. Day by day his interest grew stronger. He had never spoken to her, nor she to him, and, so far as he was concerned, this was what he most earnestly desired she might do. In this dilemma he applied to a friend for advice. "Do you eat at the same table?" asked the friend. "Yes," was the reply. "Then I would advise you the next time you dine to ask the lady to pass the salt." "All right," sighed the lovesick hero. The following day he intended to put his friend's advice into operation, but was most delightfully balked by the lady asking him "to please pass the salt." From that moment the ice was broken, till at last the lady asked for the gentleman's card, in order that she might know whom she was conversing with. The gentleman at once handed the lady his business card. Matters then went on smoothly, all the while the couple enjoying each other's company at concerts, operas, etc. At length this state of matters was brought to a crisis. The lady was about to return to the States. The lover was perplexed and again applied to his friend for advice, who at once advised him to pop the question and thus settle anxiety. She was willing to become one with him. The question then came, when the happy day would be. She replied "to-morrow." To this the gentleman at first demurred, as he had certain business matters to fix. She told him to leave them alone and write to his employers resigning his position and leave the rest to her. He complied; they were married and went to the States, when the Canadian gentleman learned that he had married a young widow worth $250,000. In his happiness he did not forget the friend who advised him. He sent that gentleman a check for $2,000 with a letter of thanks for his kind advice in enabling him to become a rich and happy man, through the possession of a handsome and loving woman. The gentleman who tendered the advice felt dubious as to the reality of the check, and did not present it at the bank for some days. At last he put the matter to the test, and was informed the money had been lying in the bank at his order for a number of days. And so the romance ended, to the satisfaction of all persons interested.—Canadian Paper.

The Hawk and the Hen.

A Fish-Hawk who had a way of throwing three cards about in a dexterous manner, one day met a Hen and invited her to bet on his game. "But I don't understand it." "Why, all there is about it, I toss these three cards so, and so, and you bet that you can pick up the Ace of Spades, for example." "I don't want to take your money," protested the Hen. "Oh, as to that, you are quite welcome." "Well here's an X that I pick up the Ace." The Hawk smiled as he thought how easy it was to throw snuff in a Hen's eyes, but, lo! Biddy picked up the card she had named and raked in the sugar. "I'll be hanged if I am not completely discouraged trying to make an honest living!" cried the Hawk, as he flung down the cards in disgust; and he thereupon not only turned Robber, but ate the Hen to boot.

MORAL:
Never discourage industry and integrity by taking money from a Three-Card-Monte man or a Faro Bank.—Detroit Free Press.

—A man at Charlotte, N. C., touched a lighted cigar to the elephant's trunk to see if anything would happen. People who picked him up after his flight found a leg and arm broken.—Detroit Free Press.
